Ilir Sela is an entrepreneur who saw a common problem, and formulated a simple, yet ingenious way to help in providing a service. Mr. Sela is the Founder and CEO of Nerd Force, Inc., an onsite technology services company supporting small business and residential computer users in the New York Metro area. If your personal computer or small business is in need of IT repair, a fantastically geeky van can arrive on your doorstep, ready to solve any problem.

Since 2003 Mr. Sela has managed Nerd Force from an owner operated computer repair shop in Staten Island, into a successful onsite technology services group, servicing the entire New York Tri State area. In late 2005, he began the processes of franchising the Nerd Force system as part of his plan to expand the brand nation-wide, while allowing other quality technicians the opportunity to run their own business.
